We are very pleased with the work Stephen Bursey Thatching did at Aquila Private Game Reserve. They were responsible for various roof renovations, and the thatch roof crowning our massive new restaurant.

I have found the company passionate in their trade and they are always willing to make suggestions regarding architectural roof design to accommodate the natural beauty of the surrounding Karoo landscape, and enhance the quality of the space.

They are especially passionate in personally overseeing the construction of the truss structure. When problems occur they are sorted out practically with me, the architect, and Stephen Bursey's project manager Nigel King. This enhanced good communication between all on site parties.

The thatching team under his leadership was always punctual, professional and reliable and worked a full day in soaring Karoo temperatures, completing the roof very efficiently.

Stephen Bursey Thatching is certainly a company that one can rely on to complete a project according to the design, and specifications.

Yours faithfully
